Check the store for new character packs including Darkseid War Lantern Elite, and Battle of Themyscira! Thank you for continuing to support the game! Where can I start. This is my all time favorite game on my phone. The fighting style is absolutely amazing. Combinations and super moves are incredible and this game has so many characters to choose from. The characters are just awesome and online is a challenge, but still have great fun. In my opinion, all the characters should be purchased in the in-game store, but I have to have challenges to earn characters as well. I also think the problems are fun, but a bit too long for me. Five stages are a bit much and I think you should do three stages but get a lot harder towards the end. The character you should add is maybe Azrael. I think his character is really good and that he would be a great addition to the store. He had many character developments for Batman: Arkham Knight and Batman: Arkham City, and he's a fan favorite. His super moves could be: 1, Azrael staked his enemy 3 times with his gauntlet spikes while spinning and called it a spiked tornado or something. 2, Azrael lunges against the enemy with his flaming sword and slices them and does 540 faces away and then stake behind him, and maybe call that one assassins kill or something. But 3 must be, Azrael slices his enemy's neck with a gauntlet spike, slices them with his flame sword and asks his AI to launch a missile strike on the enemy and call it Azrael's Revenge or something like that. From the injustice of fan @ This is an amazing game that I've played for years, developers should be very proud of it, especially since it is 5 years old and this game is still very popular. That being said I personally think that a plastic man should be added as a new character along with Arkham Nightwing. The plastic man is an incredible character and was very important to the first injustice comic series so naturally he would be in the game, his hands would do something like the Martian manhunters did during some attacks , and she was Could have him morphing into various objects to hurt his opponent, and his super move could be something epic. Arkham Nightwing could be an amazing addition to the game, not only for Nightwing fans, but for everyone in general, we only have one gold card for Nightwing and let's be honest, he's not great. He has low health and low damage, but if there was an Arkham style nightwing he could increase that character's needs, he might have synergy with other Arkham or Arkham knight characters. These two additional characters could possibly save this game, covering a lot more years. I'm sure developers are hard at work to keep this game going and I hope they can see it to give them inspiration or just an idea of fresh characters. With respect, a massive DC comics fan! Now, it comes from a wonder fan right here, and I must say you guys did a pretty darn good job on this game. The graphics are 8/10, the game is 9/10, and don't lag me at all. This game has kept me hooked for some time now, going on for 4 months I believe. Very exciting to compete with other players and just makes the player want to come back and play it again every day. The only thing I would say to change is nth metal survivor mode. It's very hard to get, especially since I can only play survivor once every 24 hours. I think there should be 2 Nth metals on the wheel instead of one that probably just fit one more from the other, and that way people would be getting more Nth metal, which would mean better characters, which would mean people coming back and wanting to play if they had good characters, and it would be easier for them to get into the higher spots of each tournament. I would also say it would be nice if there was a club or clan feature, somewhere you could compete with friends or help each other level up, maybe donations, something like that (PLEASE ADD GROUP FEATURE!). Overall it's a fantastic game and I just want to say you guys did a really good job on it and I can't wait to see what you bring to the table for the next update!
